

New arrangement of Europe

after year 1815

EUROPE UNDER NAPOLEON

Napoleon's dream was dominated the whole of Europe. In 1805 Napoleon began wars. He conquered Kingdom of Italy and Spain, reduced territory of Prussia and conquered new territory in central Europe. Napoleon abolished Rome empire and restored the duchy of Warsaw in 1806.

In 1812 took control over almost the whole Europe and marched on Russia, but he was defeated. In 1815 escaped and became as emperor for 100 days, but in battle of Waterloo he was definitely defeated.

CONGRESS OF VIENNA

EUROPE AFTER 1815

In the years 1814-1815 was held Congress in Vienna, which designated new post-war arrangement of Europe after Napoleon's wars. Congress of Vienna re-divide Europe and edited boundaries. There were abolished the political results of the Revolution and also restored absolute monarchy in France. The main word here were representatives of the four powers: Austria, United Kingdom, Russia and Prussia.

Austria- conquered Lombardy and Venice

United Kingdom- gained some French and Dutch settlements, and became the most powerful capitalist country in the world

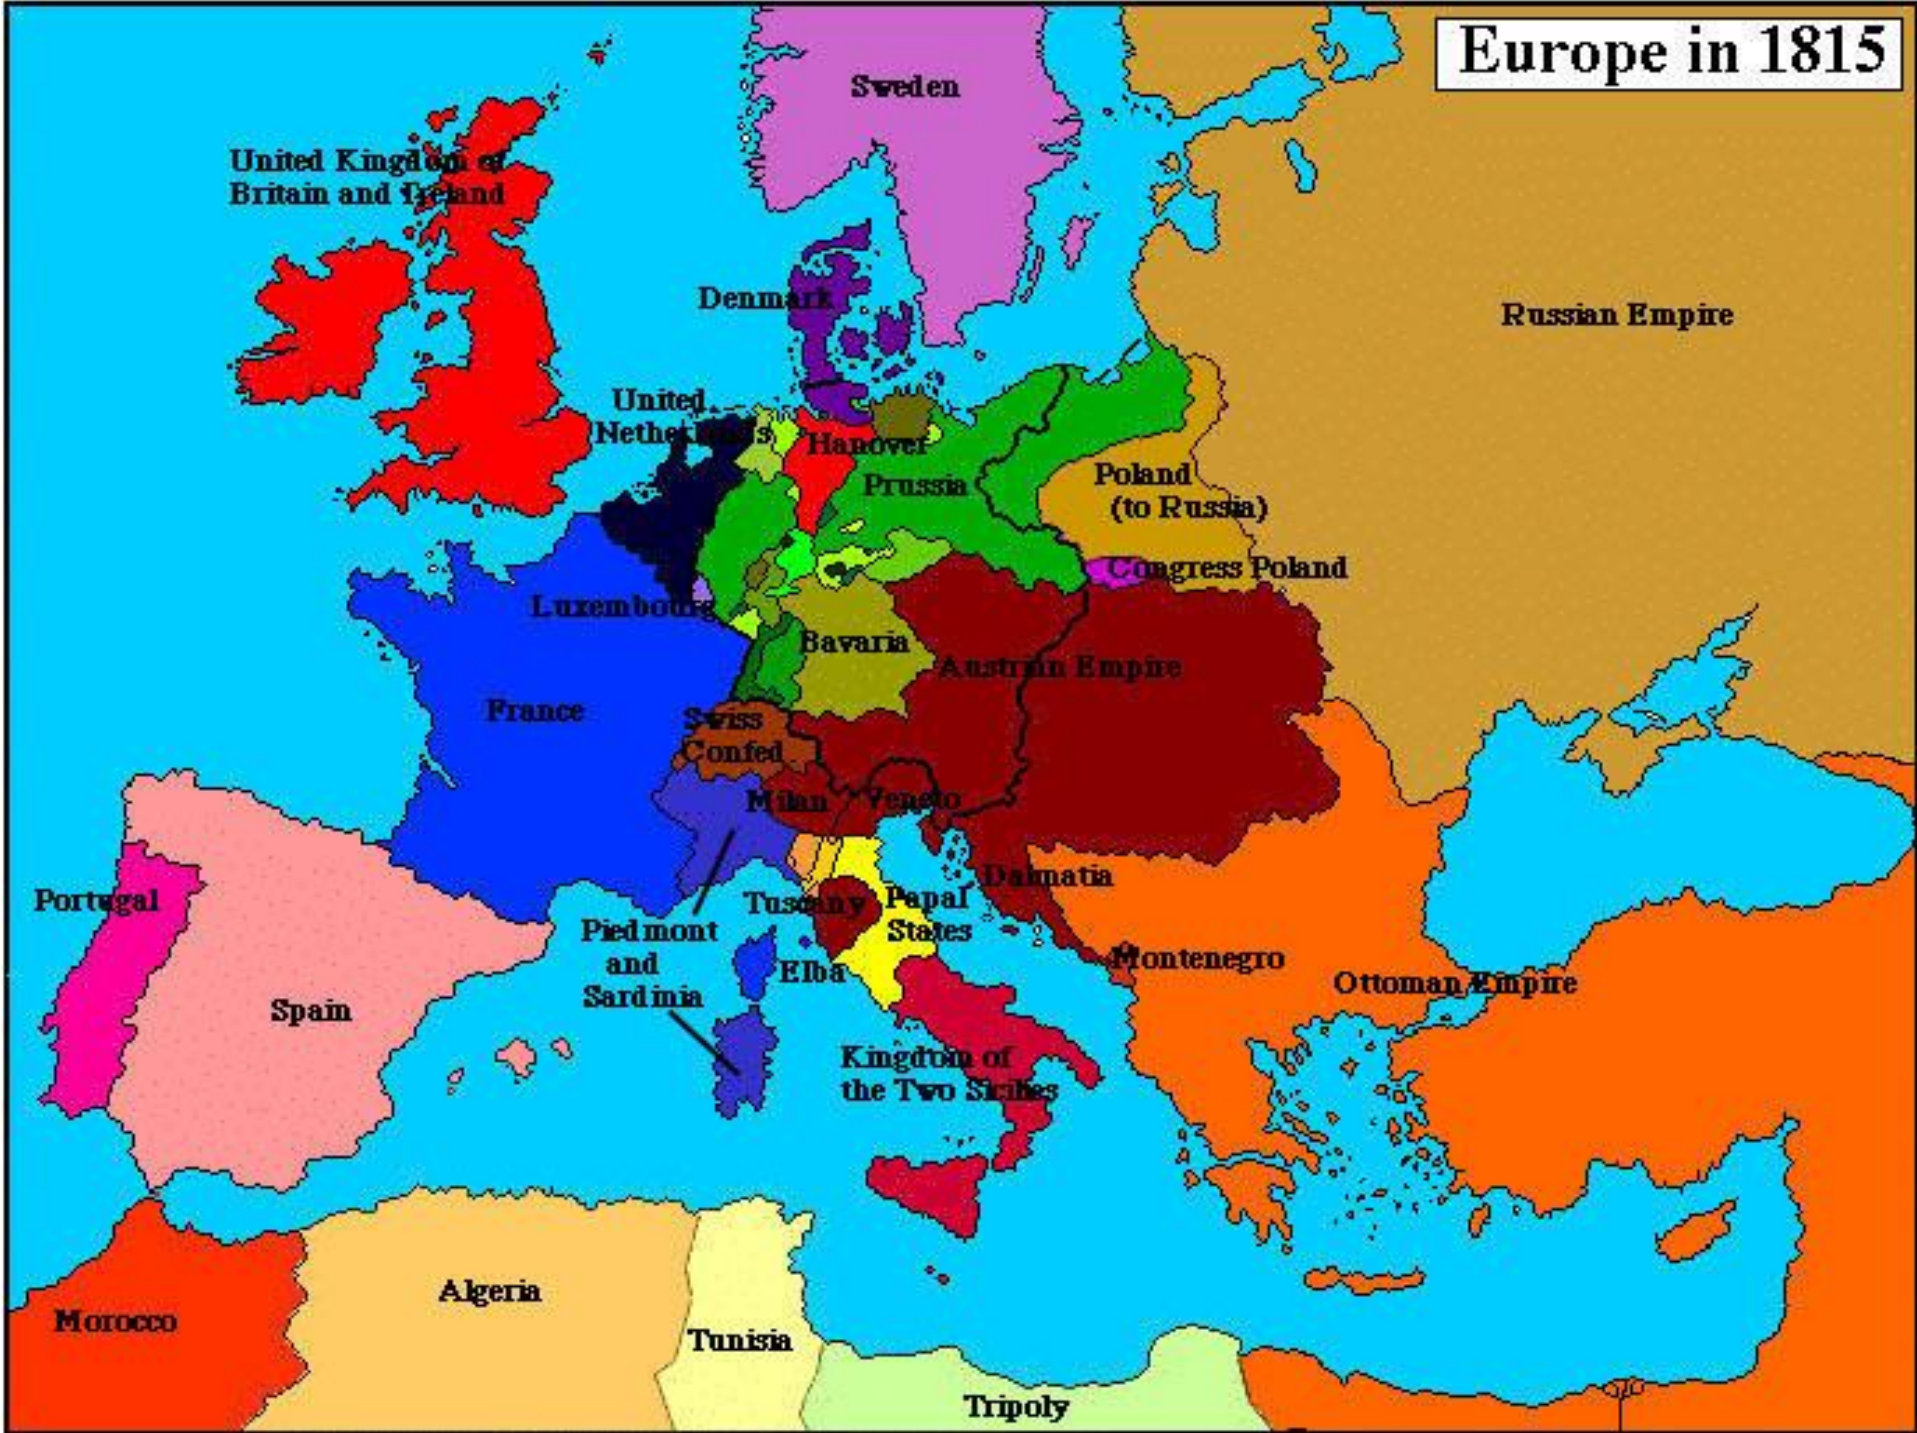

Russia- gained Finland, Bess Arabia and from the northern part of Poland created Duchy of Warsaw

Prussia- gained part of Saxony, Westphalia and Rhineland, became a leading power in 39 fragmented German states that created German Association

France- had to pay war compensation in the amount of 700 million francs, lost its navy and had to return to borders from 1790

Italy- remained fragmented: Austria conquered North except Piedmont, the Pope centre and King of Naples south.
